This assignment was much more difficult than I expected. The time parts were easy but checking everything for adding a flight proved incredibly difficult and time-consuming. I was not able to complete the assignment fully on time unfortunately, as I couldn't wrap my head completely around loading and storing in time. I estimate that I spent around 5 days working on this assignment, and around 20 hours across those 5 days were spent vigorously working on it. I started work around Tuesday (obviously not enough time, unfortunately). I don't think I learned very much from this assignment regarding time management and problem solving as I spent significantly longer on this assignment and was still unable to complete it.
